Alisa Peskin-Shepherd was named to the new Diversity and Inclusion Committee of the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals (IACP).

Peskin-Shepherd is a family law attorney with more than 30 years of experience. She founded Birmingham-based law firm, Transitions Legal in 2013.

"I am proud to help foster inclusion and diversity in collaborative family law," Peskin-Shepherd said in a news release. "Nothing could fit better with our goal of ensuring everyone gets a seat at the table to resolve situations to total satisfaction."

The IACP is a global organization that promotes client-centered conflict resolution among attorneys, counselors, and health practitioners, especially in divorce and custody disputes.

Peskin-Shepherd has been recognized for her work by dBusiness Magazine, the Detroit Jewish News and Super Lawyers. She leads workshops and is a speaker on topics related to divorce, counseling and mediation.
